Permission Request and Agreement for Translation and Foreign Publication Rights

INTRODUCTION

The Association of periOperative Registered Nurses, Inc. (“AORN”) is the national association committed to promoting safety and optimal outcomes for patients undergoing operative and other invasive medical procedures. AORN is the premier resource for perioperative nurses, advancing the profession and the professional with valuable guidance, networking, and resource-sharing opportunities. AORN is a recognized authority on safe operating room practices and a definitive source for information and guiding principles that support day-to-day perioperative nursing practice.

As a nonprofit organization, AORN relies on its members and third parties to provide or fund foreign translation and publication of AORN materials that enable health care providers around the world to understand and implement AORN standards and recommended practices. AORN is vigorous in protecting its intellectual property, which is central to its mission. This Permission Request and Agreement for Translation and Foreign Publication Rights furthers AORN’s duty and fiduciary responsibility to protect its rights and interests, as well as those of the scholars, authors, and others who create AORN’s published content. No AORN content may be used, reproduced, or transmitted in any manner without prior written permission, except in the case of brief quotations embodied in critical articles and reviews.

This Permission Request and Agreement for Translation and Foreign Publication Rights provides instructions for interested publishers and translators about AORN’s permission policy and provides publishers with a form to be used when requesting permission, along with the terms and conditions that will govern AORN’s grant of permission.

Please read the Instructions and the Permission Request and Agreement for Translation and Foreign Publication Rights carefully.

INSTRUCTIONS

For Potential Publishers. AORN will grant reputable publishers permission to translate and publish AORN content, depending on the intended audience and use. AORN may require the payment of a permission fee. If you are interested in translation and publication rights, but don't know whether the content has already been translated or licensed for translation into the desired language, contact the AORN Publications Department at permissions@aorn.org or at 303-755-6300. Please specify the content you are interested in translating and publishing.

If the material has not been translated or licensed for translation into the desired language, you may request permission in one of three ways, based on the source of the content:

- 1. If you are interested in translating and publishing content from the AORN Journal, contact Elsevier at healthpermissions@elsevier.com. Although AORN owns the copyright to all Journal content, Elsevier handles all permissions requests for Journal content. Your request should specify
 - (a) the page numbers and publication date of the content;
 - (b) how many copies you intend to print;
 - (c) how you intend to use them;
 - (d) when the use will take place;
 - (e) the intended audience; and
 - (f) the charge, if any, for access to the copies.
- 2. If you are interested in translating content from the AORN Video Library, contact the producer, Ciné-Med, at 203-263-0006.
- 3. For all other content of AORN publications and materials, complete in English, sign, and submit the attached permission request and agreement to the AORN Publications Department at permissions@aorn.org.

For Potential Translators. AORN licenses translation and foreign publication rights only to publishers, not to individual translators. AORN contracts with the publisher, who, in turn, will arrange for an accurate translation. If you are interested in translating AORN content and you are a professional translator or perioperative staff member with experience in translating medical and/or nursing texts, please contact a local foreign language publisher with experience or interest in publishing information relevant to perioperative nursing. You may need to submit a written proposal to the publisher.
